Convenient Location

The Tuscaloosa Regional Airport, located 3 miles from downtown Tuscaloosa, Alabama, is situated in Tuscaloosa County and within the city limits of Tuscaloosa. The airport is positioned to serve a 10 county West Alabama area including the cities of Centreville, Demopolis, Eutaw, Fayette, Gordo, Greensboro, Northport, Reform and Vance.

State of the Art Facilities

The Tuscaloosa Regional Airport consists of 724 acres of land, a 6499' x 150' all weather runway, a 4001' x 150' secondary runway, a control tower, a terminal building, a fire/crash station, two FBO's (Bama Air and Dixie Air), Thrasher Avionics, and Avis Rental cars, as well as numerous hangars for private planes and corporate jets. There are 100+ planes based at the airport. Ample space is available for the construction of additional hangars and light manufacturing, with direct access to runways, railway and Interstate 20/59 via the Black Warrior Parkway.

Military Training Hub

The Tuscaloosa Regional Airport tower handles approximately 63,000 operations per year, which include military training aircraft from Columbus Air Force Base, Mississippi; Naval Air Station Meridian, Mississippi; Ft. Rucker, Alabama and Pensacola Naval Air Station, Florida.

An All-America City

Tuscaloosa, Alabama, an All America City designee, has a metropolitan population of approximately 183,000 and offers a diverse range of educational, business, cultural and civic opportunities. Three institutions of higher learning are located in the city, The University of Alabama, Stillman College and Shelton State Community College. International industries such as Mercedes-Benz, JVC America and Corus Tuscaloosa recognized the business benefits of the Tuscaloosa area by building their plants here.

Tuscaloosa Industrial Park
